

1 Open Software Update in System Preferences.

Launch System Preferences, and select the Software Update icon.

2 Unenroll your Mac.

Click the 'Details...' button below 'This Mac is enrolled in the Apple Beta Software Program.'

3 Confirm Your Change.

A dialog will appear asking if you would like to restore your default update settings. Choose 'Restore Defaults', and your Mac will no longer receive developer betas. When the next commercial version of macOS is released, you can install it from Software Update in System Preferences.
